Nelson Algren: The End Is Nothing, The Road Is All is an in-depth feature length documentary from Chicago's award-winning BulletProof Film, filmmaker Mark Blottner and award-winning independent filmmaker Denis Mueller. It focuses on the struggles of one of America's greatest and least understood authors, Nelson Algren.

Algren distributor First Run Features is "A pioneering, New York-based film company whose activities have enriched independent filmmaking and distribution," says the Museum of Modern Art. First Run Features is one of the largest independent film distributors in North America and has gained a reputation for its controversial catalog of daring documentaries and feature films.
